

Prenatal Through Postpartum Health Information Resources

Library staff may find these resources helpful when patrons request health information regarding pregnancy and birth. Though a patron handout is also provided your library may also create your own customized list of resources using some of the resources listed here as well as including relevant items from your library's collection, local, and state resources.

Start with MedlinePlus

MedlinePlus is a comprehensive, authoritative, and reliable resource for patients, families, and the public. Information regarding health conditions, safety, drugs, and more can be found all in one location and all freely available through the National Library of Medicine. Access MedlinePlus: <https://medlineplus.gov/>

MedlinePlus uses a set of strict selection criteria to choose quality resources to include on their health topic pages. These health topic webpages are organized so it is easier to find the information you need. Make sure to check out the Related Health Topics located on each health topic page for additional information.

- Pregnancy <https://medlineplus.gov/pregnancy.html>
- Childbirth <https://medlineplus.gov/childbirth.html>

NIH Maternal Morbidity & Mortality Web Portal

<https://orwh.od.nih.gov/mmm-portal>

The Maternal Morbidity & Mortality Web Portal does include good information for the public. Be aware it may take some time to locate that information as it may not be separated out from the information for biomedical professionals.

The NIH Maternal Morbidity and Mortality (MMM) Web Portal is an initiative of the National Institutes of Health's (NIH) Office of Research on Women's Health (ORWH). It contains a collection of other trustworthy, science-based resources relevant to maternal health across the lifespan for scientists, researchers, consumers, and advocates.

GARD \(Genetic and Rare Diseases Information Center\)

<https://rarediseases.info.nih.gov/>

The GARD website gathers information about rare and genetic diseases from reliable research databases to make it easier for patients, families, and caregivers to find the information they seek.
